WILL GIVE THEIR UNDIVIDED ATTENTION TO DISEASES OF THE EYES. OCULISTS.

OCULISTS.

WE the undersigned citizens, of Frankfort, Ky were on the 25th of October last called upon by Dr. J. B. Gentry, the examine four patients who were afflicted with sore eyes of the most virulent character and who were about to be placed under his treatment for their recovery. We did so examine them, and found them afflicted in the most deplorable manner; their eyes were dim and shadowy in their appearance, and they seemed to suffer the most intense and excruciating pain—the disease having existed with some of them as far back as four years, preventing them from attending to any business during that period. We have been authorized by those patients to certify that in the incredible short time of four weeks that they are well and that we cannot certify in language too strong and foreible the gratitude they feel for the immense benefit they have derived from the scientific manner in which Dr. Gentry has treated their diseases. We therefore recommend him to the patronage of all afflicted in like manner.

Kentucky to Tennessee. ORDERS OF THE DAY following resolution offered by Mr

GIIOLSON on yesterday, was taken up: Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to propose and advocate such amend-ments to the Constitution of the United States, as shall limit the terms of judicial officers to not more than eight years; and shall confer the election of Senators in Congress, and President and Vice President of the United States, directly upon the people.

Mr. GHOLSON advocated the passage of the

Mr. GOLLADAY moved to lay the resolution on the table, which was adopted.

The Senate then took np the resolution in relation to the election of Public Officers.

The question was taken on the motion of Mr. WADSWORTH to postpone the consideration of the resolution until Wednesday week, and it was decided in the negative. The question was next taken upon the amendment offered by Mr. HOGAN, to strike out the "19th inst.," and insert the "15th of February," and it was decided in the affirmative-yeas, 23;

The resolution, as amended, was then adop-

The Senate then took up for consideraton the bill to suppress the pernicious practice of bet ting on elections. The 1st section of the bill provides that if any person shall bet any money or thing of value upon an election for any of the officers elected under the constitution and laws of this State, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of $400, to be recovered by indictment in the circuit court; and in addition to the fine aforesaid, if the person winning shall receive the thing bet value, it shall be forfeited to the common.

Section 2 provides that the fines arising under this act shall go, two thirds to the use of the common school fund in this State, and the other third to the use of the attorney presecuting to a conviction.

Section 3 makes it the duty of the circuit court clerk to make out and transmit to the Auditor a statement of the amount of fines resovered under this act, and against whom it is; bill to the House.

To the end however that it may be entirely authorities which confer the power upon persons to supply this currency, carefully to observe that the two following points are strictly greatest curses with which a community are af-flicted. These are, 1st, that it shall be safe, and 2nd, that it shall be always, and easily convertible into the current coin of the country, at the pleasure of the holder.

Now, without even the slightest imputation upon the present chartered Banks, is proposed to enquire whether the present paper currency possesses the two qualities above indicated, nd if not, then how shall the system be better-

That it is not safe, may be regarded as rather a strange assertion in Kentucky, where we have been accustomed to regard our banking institu tions as being of the very soundest kind; but it s thought to be easily susceptible of proof, that the securities for the redemption of the issues of our Banks is not of that high nature which the safety of the public requires.

Admitting that the capital stock shall in good faith be paid in by the subscribers, the capital itself is at once loaned out, as well as the bills which near hear than the subscribers of the bills which near hear than the subscribers of the subscribers. The Snan of Persia has dismissed all of the French, English, and Italian officers from the army.

Constantinople, 18.—Halil Pascha, the Sultan's constantinople, 18.—Hali the bills which may have been issued, and the whole is at last represented by the promissory otes of the individuals, to whom the loans a nade. Were the institutions always manage ins largely at risk, it would be fair to infer hat the security thus afforded would be amply ifficient. But that is not always the case a fully attests.

when the capital may have been actually paid in, what shall be said of concerns which have been started, and which may again be com-menced (for this is one of the difficulties of the On motion the following preamble and resoesent system, and inherent in it,) without any lutions were unanimously adopted: capital having been paid in. It may be asked how is this possible? Nothing is easier. A charter is obtained from the Legislature, certain elect a Police Judge and town Marshal.

The committee proposed sundry amendments which, being concurred in by the House, the bill persons being named commissioners for selling the stock. The books are opened, and these commissioners with their friends take the stock, his family and friends in the second. rs which it is u quire at the time of the subscription, give their notes. The coin required is borrowed, and forthwith the Governor, having had it counted, ssues his proclamation authorizing the bank to commence business. Then begins the issue of notes which are borrowed by the stockholders, and which are used in paying for their stock. Thus the whole thing moves in a circle, and amounts to but this, that the "promises to pay" of the bank are exchanged for the "promises to pay" of its stockholders. It may be said that such a state of things has never occurred. It perhaps never has to the extent indicated, but there have been considerable approaches to-wards it. How often have individuals taken stock in newly chartered banks, not because they had money to invest, but because it was supposed that their ownership of stock would give them the preference over others in getting loans. And in many instances, has not this many instances, has not this been directly held out as an inducement?

Has our paper currency possessed the element of strict convertibility, so necessary to insure its soundness? So long as the holder of a bank note has it in his power to demand and receive the coin which it is intended to represent, he possesses what is fully the equal of coin in all respects, and in some, its superior. Nor need there be any fear of an inflation causing property to advance beyond its true value, to be followed by a corresponding revulsion. But when, of strict convertibility, so necessary to insure its soundness? So long as the holder of a bank owed by a corresponding revulsion. But when, from any cause, the bank note cannot be ex-changed for the coin which it represents, then ome of the evils which always show themselves under a suspension of specie payment begin to appear. Leaving out of the question the power which banks of large circulation can, and do sometimes exercise over individuals, preventing them for fear of the damage which pright be sustained by them in their business. might be sustained by them in their business, from exercising a right which they undoubtedly possess, to require a corporation, as well as an individual, to redeem its 'promises-it is well known that by means of the branching of banks, this convertibility scarcely has an existence. Notes are not put into circulation where they are made payable, but elsewhere, and as far off as possible—and the great made payable at the office located at the most inaccessible point, so that receiving the present currency of the State, were it necessary to have it in coin, the holder would probably find it necessary to travel half over the State; but that being too troublesome, and too expensive, he february next.

THE second session of this Institution, for the present academic year, will open on the first Monday of February next.

Franklin county, Ky., Jan. 7, 1854.

Louisville Courier copy one month, and send bill to as possible—and the greatest number of them made payable at the office located at the most being too troublesome, and too expensive, he would prefer giving a broker some per cent for what he requires, so that virtually the currency is per cent below par. If this system of forcing a circulation could not be effected, but if so he broad were to pay out none but its office. but if each branch were to pay out none but its own notes, or were they all independent, the circulation of every one would be local and confined to its own neighborhood, and the reconfined to its own neighborhood for its own neighborhood for their power to offer it for, and to demand its redemption. The difficulty of requiring the redemption of it under the present system, gives the power of making large issues without fear of a demand for coin, and thus of inflating the currency to a dangerous extent.

These are some of the dangers of the present These are some of the dangers of the present that they can be the following the properties of the dangers of the present that they can be the following the properties of the present that they can be the following the properties of the present that they can be the following the properties of the present that they can be the following the properties of the present that they can be the present th and Free Banking.

It is probably unnecessary at this period, to enter into a labored argument, to show the benefits to be derived from the establishment of Banks of circulation. In the United States, while the stablishment of the United States, and being without any overy great power would constantly be forced to redeem their circulation, and thus all danger of These free banks being without branches, very great power would constantly be forced to redeem their circulation, and thus all danger of a great inflation of the currency be prevented. Being managed by their owners, they would avoid those attendant upon the large chartered banks, and from which they cannot be kept realth of the country, that of course being imrealth of the country, that of course being imrealth of the country that of the country that of the course being imrealth of the country that of the country t tors, having in reality generally but a trifling interest in the institution, and of course earing but little for its final success or safety. The right which the people possess to participate in any advantages which banks may afford belongs to you to consider, and this part of the subject especially demands your attention.

THE BRITISH QUARTERLIES BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE.

LEONARD SCOTTLE CO., Continue to Re-publish the following British Periodicals, &c.

The London Quarterly Review, Conservative. The Edinburgh Review, Whig.

The North British Review, Free Church.

The Westminster Review, Liberal. Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, Tory.

THE present critical state of European affairs will render these publications enusually inneresting during the year 1854. They will occupy a middle ground between the hastily written news items, caude speculations, and the flying rumors of the daily Journals and the ponderous Tome of the future historian, written after the ponderous Tome of the future historian, written after the ponderous Tome of the future historian, written after the ponderous Tome of the future historian, written after the ponderous Tome of the future historian, written after the ponderous of the time shall have passed away. It is to these Periodicals that readers must look for the only wealty intelligible and reliable history of corrent ewents, and as such, in addition to their well-established literary, scientific, and theological character, we urge them spon the consideration of the reading public.

Arrangements are in progress for the receipt of early sheets from the British publishers, by which we shall be able to place ell our Reprints in the hands of subscribers about as soon as they can be familished with the foreign copies. Although this will involve a very large outley on our part, we shall continue to furnish the Periodicals at the samedow rates as heretofore, viz:

For any one of the four Reviews, $3.00 per ann.

For any taye of the four Reviews, $3.00 per anu.
For any taye do. 5.00 per 4.
For all four of the Reviews, 8.00 per 4.
For Blackwood and three Reviews, 3.00 per 4.
For Blackwood and three Reviews, 9.00 per 4.
For Blackwood and three Reviews, 10.00 per 4.

POWDERS:

The only sure remedy ever known for Chills and Fever, and warranted to cure, in all cases, if taken according to directions. It cures, when taken according to directions. In TWENTY MINUTES, leaving no Fever after the Chill, very seidom requiring more than ONE DOSE to make two to five years standing, have been CURED with the FIRST DOSE, and the Chill has never, as yet returned. The beauty of this medicine is, that it stops the Chill the entirely clear from Fever after the Chill, which is not the case when any other medicine is used. It has superseded all other preparations wherever it has been introduced. Read what the Eutors of the Louisville Democrat say from their own observation:

"Ir. Urban's medicine for the cure of chills and fever has effected some wonderful cures in our own midst. A young man who has resided for several years in Louisiana.
